Guide from Thann to Cluny or Vézelay

From Thann in the South of Alsace, this guide describes precisely the Compostela path (route, altitude, crossed places, suggested steps) in Franche-Comté and Burgundy. It leads either to Cluny in 16 steps, to Vézelay in 15 steps, well-signposted paths. Indeed, in Gy in Franche-Comté, the Pilgrim has the ability to continue to Cluny, passing by the Abbey of Cîteaux and Taizé, then beyond to Le Puy-en-Velay, or head for the west to join Vézelay, another historic place of passage on the main Compostela path.

This guide also includes the description of the access roads from Basel to Héricourt and Besançon to Marnay, both located on the Franche-Comté way.

This guide is the common work of Compostella associations of southern Germany, Alsace and Franche-Comté. The description of the stages from Belfort to Cluny is essentially that of the excellent booklet published by Hans-Jorg Bahmüller and Berthold Burkhardt, "Der Jakobsweg von Breisach bis Burgund" reviewed and translated by members of our Franc-Comtoise association.

Practical guide in the Franche-Comté

As an indispensable complement to the previous guide, this book shows the cities and villages crossed in Franche-Comté, from Angeot (Territoire-de-Belfort) to Saint Jean de Losne (Côte d'or), that is 225 km towards Le-Puy-en-Velay, and up to Fontenelle, 195 km towards Vézelay. It provides information on the distances travelled and remaining to go, very specific details on accommodations along the way and the comments about the heritage, history and sights encountered along the route. The same information is available from Basel and Besançon on the Franche-Comté Road mentioned therein.
